Laraway announces new Backpack Program Director

Tammy Miller, M.S., has been hired as Director of the Backpack Program at Laraway Youth & Family Services in Johnson, Vermont. She brings extensive experience in educational and therapeutic settings.

Miller joined Laraway in 2013 as a Lead Behavior Interventionist. She was promoted to Case Manager and Tier 2 Program Manager before assuming her present leadership position. Miller earned a Master's Degree in Mediation and Conflict Intervention at Champlain College. Additionally, she brings fifteen years of experience from her work in public schools and other mental health agencies.

"Tammy is a great collaborator and communicator, bringing innovative approaches to supporting students, their families and our school partners," said Greg Stefanski, Laraway's Executive Director.

Laraway's Backpack Program provides comprehensive, strengths-based, individualized supports to children and youth, K-12, in the public school setting. For more information, please visit www.laraway.org.
